Papuan Pitta tour Iron Range, Far North Qld 4n/5d birding tour

• 31 Dec 2026 – 4 January 2027 (5d)

Join us for our annual Cape York Fly In/Fly Out Pitta tour! During the "Wet Season" when there is a chance that the main roads up the Cape will be closed it is the best way to visit Iron Range for the migratory New Guinea birding specials such as Red-bellied Pitta, Buff-breasted Paradise Kingfisher and Black-winged Monarch which migrate south at this time of year and then return north when the rains stop. While the Kingfisher heads down as far as Cairns and the Cassowary Coast, the pitta and the monarch tend to stay in the Iron Range area. Of course, the other New Guinea specials which mostly cannot be seen anywhere else in Australia such as Eclectus Parrot, Red-cheeked

Parrot, Palm Cockatoo, Chestnut-breasted Cuckoo, Yellow-billed Kingfisher, Fawn-breasted Bowerbird, Black-eared Catbird, Magnificent Riflebird, Trumpet Manucode, Tropical Scrubwren, Green-backed Honeyeater and Tawny-breasted Honeyeater are there as well. Some Cape York endemics also occur, with Northern Scrub-Robin, Frill-necked Monarch and White-streaked Honeyeater all to be expected. The Iron Range area has a good variety of habitats including mangroves, heathland, vine forest and the coast so there is lots on offer to look at. It has the largest area of lowland rainforest in Australia.

ITINERARY

Papuan Pittas – 4n/5d Iron Range wet season tour

Day 1: Fly to Lockhart River

Meet your guide at Cairns airport prior to taking the flight from Cairns to Lockhart River (this flight is not included in the tour price but we'll book for you at group rates). The plane is usually a Dash 8 seating about 80 people and if the weather is good and you have a window seat you can stare down at the emptiness of the Cape York peninsula. After leaving the Wet Tropics around Cairns we fly over dry savanna. The direct flight takes about 1.5 hours. On arrival the guide will pick up the vehicle and after checking into your accommodation you can start the exploration of the Iron Range area. Often the first birds we see are Palm Cockatoos sitting on the telegraph poles along the road to Lockhart River. Accommodation: Iron Range Cabins, Lockhart River (air conditioned, en-suite cabins; meals: D).

Day 2: Iron Range National Park.

We have an early start and will spend the day birding Iron Range National Park. We will be looking for the local endemics in particular, Northern Scrub-robin, White-streaked Honeyeater and Frill-necked Monarch as well as the special birds which Cape York shares with New Guinea including the Eclectus Parrot, Magnificent Riflebird, Yellow-billed Kingfisher, Buff-breasted Paradise Kingfisher (Wet season only), Black-eared Catbird, Trumpet Manucode, Palm Cockatoo, Tropical Scrubwren, Black-winged Monarch (wet season only), Yellow-legged Flycatcher, Fawn-breasted Bowerbird, Tawny-breasted Honeyeater, Green-backed Honeyeater, White-faced Robin and the specialty of this time of year, the Papuan (Red-bellied) Pitta. We have a good chance of all these birds during our stay here, but do not expect to get them all at once. Accommodation: Iron Range Cabins, Lockhart River (air conditioned, en-suite cabins; meals: B, L, D).

Day 3: Iron Range National Park.

We'll further explore the Iron Range area visiting Portland Roads and Chilli Beach for shore and sea birds. In this area we have a good chance of Torresian Imperial Pigeon, Striated Heron, Little Egret and Eastern Reef Egrets, Pied Oystercatcher, Pacific Golden Plover, Mongolian Sand Plover and Greater Sand Plover, Eurasian Whimbrel, Common Sandpiper, Grey-tailed Tattler, Red-necked Stint, Ruddy Turnstone, Silver Gull, Greater Crested Tern, Lesser Crested Tern, Bridled Tern, Little Tern, Black-naped Tern and Brown (or Common) Noddy. In the evening flocks of Metallic

Starlings swirl along the beach like noisy clouds as they come in to roost for the night. Fawn-breasted Bowerbird is also amongst the birds we will look for today if we haven't already seen it near the airport. There is a great fish restaurant at Portland Roads and we will hope to be able to eat there. For people on special diets, we can arrange a different menu in advance. Accommodation: Iron Range Cabins, Lockhart River (air conditioned, en-suite cabins; meals: B, L, D).

Day 4: Iron Range National Park.

As well as the Iron Range specials there are a number of more widespread birds we can hope to see including the Australian Brush Turkey which here has a light purple collar instead of the yellow collar found on the birds further to the south. Other birds we may hope to see include Double-eyed Fig Parrot, Little Bronze Cuckoo, Oriental and Brush Cuckoos, Azure Kingfisher, Collared Kingfishers, Noisy Pitta, Spotted Catbird, Lovely Fairy-wren, Large-billed Gerygone, Fairy Gerygones, Yellow-spotted Honeyeater, Graceful Honeyeater, Varied Honeyeater, Brown-backed Honeyeater, Hornbill Friarbird, Cicadabird, Varied Triller, Grey Whistler, Little Shrike-thrush, Yellow Oriole, White-breasted Woodswallow, Black Butcherbird, Pied Currawong, Rufous Fantail, Shining Flycatcher, White-eared Monarch, Spectacled Monarch, Yellow-breasted Boatbill, White-browed Robin, Mangrove Robin, Silvereye, Mistletoebird, Red-browed Finch and whole lot more .

Spotlighting at night we may be lucky enough to find Marbled Frogmouth, Large-tailed Nightjar, Masked Owl or Rufous Owl. We may also hope for Southern Spotted Cuscus and Agile Wallaby. Accommodation: Iron Range cabins (en-suite cabins; meals included: B, L, D.)

Day 5: Local area birding & fly back to Cairns.

Today we will bird the local area in the early morning in search of some of the more difficult species that may have eluded us earlier or just to get better views or photographs of birds we have seen already, before returning to the airport after lunch for our flight back to Cairns. (accommodation – own arrangements; meals included: B, L.). End of tour.

Note – because of the unpredictable weather this time of year, the flight back to Cairns could depart any time of the day, so it's not recommended to book onward flights from Cairns until the following day.
